1. Object 1. [REDACTED] the general quartered in Zimmermann Villa has been away for weeks and that a colonel on his staff was his deputy. [REDACTED] two soldiers with pistols were present when the general or the colonel had a hair cut. [REDACTED] a sign reading "Kommandantura" was hung on one of the buildings at Object 1. An officer with a visor cap having a red band who was previously observed at Object 2 when the Kommandantura was still located there was standing at the entrance of this building. (1)
2. Object 2. On 3 August, 90 to 100 air force soldiers including officers and female personnel, left Object 2 after a moving picture performance. Sixty men marched in the direction of Object 1, while the remaining personnel walked over there individually. Thirty EM marched to Object 3, 25 female soldiers to Object 4 and 50 EM in a column marched to Object 9. Twenty of these soldiers wearing red-bordered blue epaulets entered block c. On 17 August, the personnel returning from the movies at Object 2 included 150 soldiers who went in the direction of Object 1, 32 who went in the direction of Object 3, 18 to 20 soldiers including female personnel who went to Object 4 and 10 soldiers wearing red-bordered black epaulets who went to Object 9. (2)
3. Object 3. consisted of three billeting buildings; two of them were 50 meters long. The personnel quartered there marched to Object 1 for their meals and guard relief. On 20 August, 12 motor vehicles were parked in the 20 partially destroyed stalls of Object 5. From a tailor who worked at Object 7 where shoes and uniforms of the airfield personnel were processed, it was learned that Fuchs (fnu) was administrator of the Workshops. Allegedly forty men were employed at the workshops. Among them were 30 tailors and three or four shoemakers. Both villas of Object 8 were vacant, and a guard was posted in front of them. It was rumored that the finance office was to move in here. Object 9 consisted of eight houses and two garages. The blocks (a) to (f) had 2 entrances and eight 2 1/2-room apartments, while the blocks (g) and (h) had only four 2 1/2-room apartments. On 17 August, it was observed that the guard in front of the Kommandantura had red-bordered black epaulets. (3)
